

Chung Nye of New Westminster, B.C
- A Canadian Story from the Perspective of Chinese Pioneers living in B.C. during the 1880's to 1920's

Rudy M.T. Chiang

Abstract: Chung Nye left his home village at age 16 for the Golden Mountains. The earliest Canadian record indicates that he landed in Victoria B.C. in April 1882. His career as a Chinese Contractor in the salmon canning industry and his life as a merchant in New Westminster illustrate one aspect of the numerous contributions made by Chinese pioneers in the province. A chapter on the lives of Chinese pioneers, and their contribution to Canada, remains missing from the history books of British Columbia.

Key Words: Chinese Pioneers, Chung Nye(蔣奈), Moy Kwok Village (梅閣鄉), Sun Woy County (新會縣), Chinese Contractor, salmon cannery, New Westminster (二埠), Chinese Times (大漢公報).
